CAPTAIN WHITE CHANGES FORM WITH GEERS IN THE SULKY-THE DRIVING CLUB MADE $10,000

ON THE MEETING-JOE PATCHEN, JOHN

R. GENTRY AND ROBERT J. TO MEET AGAIN.

A handful of horsemen and members of the Driv-Ing Club witnessed the windup of the Grand Circuit trotting meeting at Fleetwood Park yesterday. The postponed 2.27 class, four heats of which were trotted on Friday, was the only contest remaining unfinished, and most of the spectators who had seen Lake Erie outact Captain White and outlast Belle Truxion on the previous day believed that the race house on St. Nicholas-ave. Mrs. Bliss was exwas a pretty sure thing for the son of Cadmus Hambletonian. Captain White had shown more speed than any c her horse in the party, trotting a long mile around the entire field in the second heat to rights for the children's return. Toward evenand finishing in 2:15, but in Ira Harris's hands he had been so unsteady after his fast winning mile that he was back in the ruck at the finish of the

Some members of the Driving Club who had backed the fast black horse after his exhibition of speed in the second heat did not like Harris's drivir.g., and it is said that complaints were made to the tack of cholera morbus. She believed that she julges while the horses were on the track scoring had been made ill by a dish of clam chowder she for the fifth heat on Friday night. Be this as it may, the race was suddenly postponed until yesterday, and when the horses appeared for the wind-day. "Ed" Geers was in the sulky behind the speedy but erratic Cartain White. The judges denied the but erratic Cartain White. The judges denied the current rumor that they had ordered Harris to re-sign his seat to the Tennessee reinsman. The bet-ting, which had before been in favor of Lake Erle, changed suddenly when Geers came out behind White, W. F. Stee e, the owner of the favorite, being among those who bet on his chance to win. Geers drove the horse, who is unquestionably a bad actor, in masterly style, steadying him around the first turn, where he wanted to leave his stride, and letting Lake Eric and Belle Truxton show the way to the three-quarter pole. There Geers made his drive, and as the nervous little trotter came up with Lake Eric, Scott Quinton, driving the latter. swished his whip in a way that threatened to send the Captain into the air. But Geers, who knows a thing or two, drove wide of the leader, taking the outside track, and easily beating Quinton's horse through the stretch in 2:18%. Belle Truxton came on from the rear in surprising, peculiar fashion the moment L to Erie was seen to be beaten, but she could not e the day, and White won as he Betting was now at a standstill, it being plain to everybody that Captain White could not loss. The last heat was a repetition of the fifth, although Belle Truxton was out for it from start to finish, opening a gap o half a dozen lengths in the first half-mile, which was trotted in 1:00%. When Geers sail coming v the hill past the point of rocks, however, the male was seen to be beaten, for White trotted steadily and true at a rate of speed which A sharp brush at the head quickly closed in e 1. of the homestic ch gave the heat and race to Captain White in 2:17%

Circuit meeting were shipped yesterday to Galesburg and Philadelphia, where two notable trotting meetings are to be held this week. The Salisbury stable with the peeriess trotter Azote returned to the West. It is not unlikely that the big horse will start to beat the world's record at Galesburg this week, and everybody who witnessed his two splendid performations here is of the opinion that Alix will not on the the champion if Azote starts under favorable anditions. The Hamlin stable will be shipped outsville, to-day, where Robert J., Nightingale in the others will enjoy a week's lettup, preparatory to starting there next week. Robert J. is entered in the E.00 free-for-all at the Kentucky town with his old rivais, John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen, as the other starters. After the Louisville meeting the champion pacer will be taken to Fort Wayne, and the Village Farm trainer hopes to drive him a mile in two minutes yet this season. Joe Patchen and John R. Gentry are to pace a series of exhibition races, beginning next Wednesday at Belmont Park, Philadelphia, and continuing after the Louisville meeting at Dubuque and Sloux City, Iowa Robert J. will not start in these exhibition contests but the trio will probably come together again a Lexington in October in the free-for-all class. THE WIND-UP AT FLEETWOOD WAS MRS. BLISS POISONED?

CLOSE OF A MOST SUCCESSFUL WEEK OF SHE DIED SUDDENLY AFTER EATING CLAM CHOWDER.

> AN AUTOPSY REVEALS EVIDENCE OF POISON, AND THE STOMACH WILL BE ANALYZED-SHE WAS WEALTHY AND LIVED IN

ST. NICHOLAS-AVE. Mrs. Evelyn Bliss, fifty-five years old, died Friday night at No. 297 St. Nicholas-ave, in a sudden attack of violent illness that gave rise to the suspicion that she had been poisoned. Mrs. Bliss lived alone with her two children, Henry E. Bliss, who is the librarian of the City College, and an unmarried daughter.

The Bliss family occupied the top flat in the pecting her two children home from a vacation. She had been busy all day Friday setting things ing she rested, content. A friend of the family called and was with her. At 6 o'clock he came down stairs and requested Mrs. Van Norden, the wife of the agent, to come to see Mrs. Bliss, who had been taken suddenly ill. Mrs. Van Norden found her suffering apparently from a violent athad eaten, and reminded Mrs. Van Norden of a similar experience she herself had had some time before. Mrs. Van Norden recalled the fact, time before. Mrs. Van Norden recalled the fact, and, as Mrs. Bliss refused to have a physician called, procured for her some medicine of the kind she herself had taken. But Mrs. Bliss did not raily. She grew worse, and Dr. Ballman, of No. 248 West One-hundred-and-thirty-fifth-st., was called in. He did what he could for her, but without avail. His patient died at 11 o'clock. Deputy Coroner O'Hanlon made an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Bliss yesterday afternoon and found evidence of poison. Her stomach was found to be greatly inflamed. Coroner O'Meagher will submit the stomach of the woman to the Health Board for an analysis. The Board will report Monday.

will submit the stomach of the woman to the Health Board for an analysis. The Board will report Monday.

Until a late hour last night there was a consultation in the office of Captain Thompson of the West One-hundred-and-twenty-fifth-st. station, at which Coroner O'Meagher, Dr. Ballman and the precinct detectives were present. It was said that the police would await the result of the Health Board analysis.

It was learned that Mrs. Bliss was a wealthy woman, holding property to the extent of $250,000, which she had obtained from her former husband. This property is now in litigation. Mrs. Bliss is said to have said to Dr. Ballmann: "Doctor, I have been poisoned. I am going to die. I've been poisoned by my relatives, who are trying to get my money." Dr. Ballman refused to confirm this, but the story was told on good authority. Miss Florence Bliss and her brother Henry returned yesterday evening from Point Pleasant, N. J., where they have been staying for the last few days. Miss Bliss took her mother's death clamly. She said that her mother had been suffering from heart disease for some time, and that she thought that her death was the result of that.

When the autonsy was being performed she when the autopsy was being performed she turned to Deputy Coroner O'Hanlon and said: "I think that it was the morphine injection that killed my mother." Dr. Ballman was present at the time, but she was not aware that he was the physician in the case. No one seems to know who it was that sent the clam chowder to Mrs. Bliss.

Mrs. Bliss had been separated from her husband for several years, he living with his stepdaughter, Mrs. Fleming, a widow, who is a daughter of Mrs. Bliss by a former marriage. She was on good terms with her husband, who visited her occasionally, as did Mrs. Fleming.

DR. SEAMAN'S ESCAPE.

JUST AVOIDED DEATH IN THE SWISS MOUNTAINS.

A BRIDGE GAVE WAY SOON AFTER HE HAD CROSSED IT AND A YOUNG WOMAN WAS

KHALED-DELIGHTS OF GROUSE SHOOTING. Dr. Louis Livingston Seaman, the well-known physician and surgeon, of this city, arrived on the St. Louis after a vacation abroad, in the course of which he climbed several mountains in Switzerland and shot grouse in Wales. Dr. Seaman was the guest during the latter part of his holiday of Evan Powell, one of the coal kings of Wales, and he was a member of a party that shot over Mr. Powell's grouse moors, which are pic-turesquely situated at the foot of Mount Snowden. Dr. Seaman spoke of his grouse shooting ex-periences with a fervor which proved that he is an enthusiast in the sport, which is ushered in every 2 1 8 7 1 1 August upon what the English term the "glorious twelfth." "Grouse shooting." Dr. Seaman remarked, "Is a delightful sport, and I cannot imagine any one Englishman or American spending a vacation in a more enjoyable way. After a long day on the moors popping at the birds one comes home with a terrific appetite, and in the evening one sits down to a corner at whist with that delicious feeling of rested weariness which is only obtained after a long walk and plenty of stirring experiences. We brought down 193 brace of grouse altogether, and I had so much pleasure and exhilaration that I intend to have another shy at the birds next year." In his Airine climbings Dr. Seaman had a narrow escape from death. Stretching across a deep crevice on one of the high mountains in Switzer-land was an old frail, tottering bridge. Dr. Seaman crossed it, but in less than two minutes afterward it gave way under a young woman who was traversing it, and she was hurled to her death hundreds o feet below.

"I have a'ways considered myself lucky, and this was clean proof of the fact," added the doctor with genial philosophy.

Replying to an inquiry, Dr. Seaman spoke in unqualified admiration of the good qualities of the St. Louis. He said: "I have crossed the Atlantic many times, and she is certainly the best boat in a sea that I have ever been on. We ran into a heavy gale, and the ocean was extremely rough, but the St. Louis never seemed to labor a bit, and she rode through the turbulent weather and the tessing waves like a duck. The discomforts of a rough passage were not nearly so annoying as are experience, on some of the liners. The gale detained us all of twelve hours, and there is no doubt that with better weather we would have been landed pesterday."

A UNION OF THEATRICAL MANAGERS. TO BUY AND PRODUCE PLAYS AND MAKE AS

announcement was made yesterday that a syndicate of 'heatrical managers had been formed for the buying and producing of foreign plays and the management of American ones. All the opera-tions of the syndicate are to be east of the Mississippi River and it is to have headquarters at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, in this city, and at McVickar's Theatre, in Chicago. Mr. McVickar, H. C. Miner, the manager of the Fifth Avenue Theatre, bers, and the manager of the syndicate is to be J. Charles Davis, who is associated with Mr. Miner at

The capital is expected to be some $1,000,000, and with this it is counted possible to produce plays in a much more costly way and at the same time with less individual risk than would be possible for an independent manager. Besides the men already named, managers in twelve other cities are interested in the scheme. Results are expected to become visible in Chicago next June, and in this city just a year from now. A large dramatic company, capable of playing anything, is to be organized, and there will also be a murical company. Mr. Brooks has been at work for the syndicate in Europe, and has secured several plays and a come opera. A musical comedy by American writers has been contracted for.

It is said that the syndicate will not interfere with the other enterprises of the managers composing it. They will run and control all their own theatres and companes just as hitherto. American writers will be encouraged to write for the syndicate, but its purpose is not specifically the fostering of native art. Its purpose is to make money for its members. The capital is expected to be some $1,000,000, and

As Monday is Labor Day the Treasury financial statements will not be issued the Treasury financial statements will not be issued until Tuesday.

The customs receipts so far this fiscal year have exceeded the receipts for the corresponding period of the last fiscal year by $3,000,000. This excess is due largely to the duty on sugar, which was last year on the free list.
